

26 September 2010

KPMG's Ian Borley appointed non executive director at The Heart of the National Forest Foundation

Ian Borley, who is senior partner at business advisory firm KPMG in Leicester, is to become a non executive director at the Heart of the National Forest Foundation.

His role will be to help deliver the Foundation's vision to create a vibrant environment in the heart of the National Forest which includes a 1,000-acre woodland park and houses the visitor attraction CONKERS.

He commented: "This new appointment reflects my own personal commitment, and KPMG's commitment, to support Leicestershire as a place to live, work, and visit. I hope to bring a wide range of business skills and experience to benefit the Foundation in the coming years.

"I am proud also to follow in the footsteps of my predecessor, the late John Eggleston, who played a leading role in the formation of the National Forest back in the 1990s when he was at KPMG."

Ian Borley, who joined KPMG over 25 years ago and become Leicester senior partner three years ago, already holds several external positions at Leicestershire organisations. He is currently non executive director at Prospect Leicestershire, the National Space Centre and was also non executive director at the 2009 Special Olympics. He is also chairman of Leicestershire Business Voice.